CCTV & remote monitoring

With criminal activity and anti-social behaviour on the increase, electronic monitoring of your home or business property is an excellent way to protect your premises.

- CCTV cameras provide an immediate deterrent and can considerably aid crime prevention, preventing property damage or criminal activity before it happens
- Remote monitoring of CCTV footage helps to ensure speedy Police response
- Is a recognised way to reduce your insurance premiums
- Digitally recorded images of evidential quality can help identify the accused should there be a prosecution following a crime on your premises

Live feeds are closely monitored at our Control Centre 24 hours a day by our experienced staff. Highly trained to recognise and interpret events, they are able to assess a situation and take the appropriate action, be it to call the Police or send a mobile patrol to prevent non-criminal disturbance on your property.

Some of the benefits of remote video monitoring and supporting services include:

- Visual confirmation of alarms before police or fire are dispatched reducing false alarms and resulting fees
- Encourages suspects to move on before a problem or conflict situation occurs eliminating a problem that otherwise would have developed

- Improves safety of employees
- Improves service levels to customers by removing or reducing impact of problem individuals
- Reduction property damage caused by vandalism
- Monthly reports summarize activity by type and location. Problem equipment is quickly identified and repaired

When choosing a CCTV system it is important to ensure that the solution will provide the protection required. Mercia Securities have many years experience in the CCTV Monitoring field and can provide the technology and operational procedures to ensure the appropriate equipment is installed and standards are met.

Video surveillance and remote monitoring can be considered as an enhanced management tool that can be effectively used by any type of organisation. Our remote monitoring service is highly effective for sites with little out-of-hours activity. It is also useful where the value of maintaining a manned presence is limited. Remote monitoring services facility ensures effective onsite presence and complete off-premises facilities control.

According to a British Chambers of Commerce' business crime survey, CCTV is considered the most effective method of reducing crime.
